How it works

- The Golden Boot goes to a tournament's top goalscorer (or scorers) - it is a personal scoring award, not the team championship.
- Whoever scores the most goals across every match in that tournament wins it, counting goals from the group stage through the final.
- Two or more players can finish level on goals; earlier tournaments often recognized every player tied at the top, while modern tie-breakers may use assists or minutes played to separate them (see the notes under each table below).

- This page tracks two separate Golden Boot races, one for the FIFA World Cup and one for UEFA EURO, each with its own table of winners.

World Cup notes

- Just Fontaine's 13 goals in 1958 remain the record for one edition.
- Modern tie-breakers may separate players with the same number of goals using assists and minutes played.
- Earlier editions often recognized multiple joint top scorers.

EURO notes

- Michel Platini scored nine goals in five matches in 1984.
- UEFA's award rules have changed over time; joint leading scorers (marked “Multiple” in the Team column) are shown tied, with no single official winner for that edition.
